

The Pharmacy Practice Research Trust

Media release for immediate use
17 March 2008

Pharmacy Practice Research Trust dedicated website goes live

The Pharmacy Practice Research Trust's (the Trust) research activity and funding, awards & bursaries and events can now be accessed directly from their own dedicated website which has gone live today at: www.pprt.org.uk

Previously this valuable information was available via the RPSGB website and links to the Trust will still be available via the Society's "Research" pages: <http://www.rpsgb.org/worldofpharmacy/research/>

"The Trust has published a substantial body of work covering all the research reports of our commissioned studies since we were established in 1999," said Dr Sue Ambler, Trust Director. "It's fitting therefore as we approach our 10th anniversary that the Trust should now have its own dedicated website. This will make it much easier to access our publications, research opportunities, events and information about the work that we do."
